Pascal Hervieu graduated from the EDHEC Business School in Lille, France in 1981.

He began his career as export sales engineer and later on as sales manager, working for SAHUT-CONREUR in France.

During this period, he was heavily involved in potash, coal and minerals agglomeration projects worldwide.

In 1992, Pascal created EURAGGLO SAS, specialized in designing and supplying agglomeration equipment including roller presses, hydraulic and pellet presses as an overall "all-in" concept to answer the needs of the industry.

He authored several papers on applications and binders used in the roller-press area.

He served as President of the IBA during the period 2001-2003 and is currently Past-President.

He is involved in consulting and auditing existing agglomeration plant, especially in the compaction-granulation field.

His wife Catherine is associated in the operational side of EURAGGLO. Pascal, Catherine and their 3 children live near Valenciennes in Northern France and are fond of Italian culture and way of life and, more generally, of discovering our world.
